The House then went into committee of the whole (on the tariff bill and was addressed by Mr. The House then went into committee of the whole (on the tariff bill and was addressed by Mr. Grosvenor (Ohio.) He referred to what he characterized as the stock change, that this was an attempt of the democratic majority, stimulated by the message of the President to repeal and get rid of a war tax. It was said that the protective system was a system born of the war for the suppression of the rebellion. There were, he contended, no war taxes left save and except alone the system of internal revenue taxation which was in this country, what it had been in all other countries a resort to which the country was driven by the exigencies of war, and which ought to have been the first monument of taxation to be stricken down and removed. It was strange that the democratic party arrayed itself, led by the amateur statesman, the President of the United States, in detense of the internal revenue system; that suddenly the democratic party had become the champion of that system. For twenty years the gentlemen representing the Southern states had not only denounced the general system of internal revenue, but had opposed all the efforts of the Government to enforce the law, and had so thoroughly educated the people of the South into the belief that the system was tyrannous that they had built up a great sentiment in the South that to defeat and violate and destroy that system by fraud and violence and bloodshed and murder was but the assertion of the God-given right of rebellion against

Some of the members of the committee declare that they are unwilling to have the claim of Virginia against the Government for money advanced to erect public buildings in Washington just after the national capital was located here mixed up with the bridge and Mount Vernon avenue projects. They say they would rather vote to make a donation outright to assist in establishing Mt. Vernon avenue than to render any aid, either direct or indirect, toward recovering Virginia's claim. As has been stated in The Star, the state of Virginia has made over to the Mt. Vernon Avenue Association its claim against the Government, and in this way the matter enters into the bridge question.

REFERRED TO THE COURT OF CLAIMS. In the Senate to-day Mr. Morgan introduced the bill (now pending in the House) to refer the claim of Rebecca B. If the calendar of the House were not already blocked this might promise well for the bill, since it would have great strength on a yea and nay vote. As it is, however, the committee may be able to relieve itself of the responsibility for the bill by reporting it, and yet it may be as effectually killed on the calendar.

SICKENING TRAGEDY IN CHICAGO. Woman Murdered for Preventing Her Husband from Outraging Their Daughter.

CHICAGO, April 30 .- While defending the honor f her thirteen-year-old-step-daughter against the dendishness of an unnatural father, Mrs. Netta Muchiberg was struck down with murderous intent by her husband, Matthew, at a late hour last night, and is now dying. Muchiberg returned to his home on Law avenue in an intoxicated condition after having been absent all day. He went directly to the bed-room where his three children were sleeping, and attempted an assault on his thirteen-year-old daughter, Eleanor. The child screamed for aid. Muchiberg's wife rushed in from the next room. The brute was beating the child about the head to slience her cries, and when his wife endeavored to stop him, he turned and dealt her two blows, which cut her scalp and face terribly. With the blood streaming own and blinding her, Mrs. Muchiberg crawled toward the door, and reaching up for the knob endeavored to open it and alarm which cut her scalp and face terribly. With the blood streaming down and blinding her, Mrs. Muchiberg crawled toward the door, and reaching up for the knob endeavored to open it and alarm the neighborhood. With a horrible oath the fellow made for his wife. "You'il cail the police, will you? You'il call the police, eh? Then take that and that," striking his wife over the head. All three of the children sprang out of bed and endeavored to stop their cruel parent's wrath. So much did they hamper the use of Muchiberg's arms that Mrs. Muchiberg managed to get to her feet and out on the steps, where she cried for help. Muchiberg shook the children from him and nurriedly ran into the bedroom. Here he nastily opened a tool chest and the next instant reappeared with a murderous-looking crow-bar about 3 feet long. The eidest girl, Eleanor, threw her arms about her father's neck.

"Don't kill her. Don't kill her," pleaded the little one, in her frenzy, jumping up and showering kisses upon the brute.

Muchiberg struck the child and threw her into a corner of the room. Then bending over his wife, he yelled that he would give her something to cry help for, and raising the crowbar brought it down with all his force, the point shattering the skull and laying bare the brain. Muchiberg immediately seemed to realize the enormity of his crime, and after pleading with the children not to tell who did it, he took his savings from a hiding place and fied. The children spent some time valuly trying to resuscitate their mother, and then called neighbors. Surgeons were summoned and delared Mrs. Muchiberg's injuries fatal. The police have as yet been unable to find the murderer. Two years ago Muchiberg attempted an assault upon the same child, and mercliessly beat his wife for interfering. He was arrested, but never punished, as the wife refused to appear against him.

To Save Collins from Lynching. Macon, Ga., April 30.—Sheriff Fountain, of Wilkinson County, arrived here this morning with the negro Will Collins, who shot and instantly killed J. A. Sheffield, a prominent merchant at Irwinton, in that county, Saturday night. While Sheffield was on the way home, Collins, who stood in a corner of a fence on the roadside, killed him with a snotgun. He afterwards robbed him. The people of the town turned out and captured Collins, tracking him from the scene of the murder. He was brought here to prevent lynching.

A Fatal Lamp Explosion. New York, April 30.—About midnight last night a lamp exploded in the apartments of Mrs. Falst, No. 1050 10th avenue, and she and her three children were so severely burned that they had to be taken to the Roosevelt Hospital, where two of the children—charies and George—died early this recruine.

Prom Wall Street To-day.

New York, April 30, 11 a. m.—The stock market opened with a rush this morning, being extremely active and very strong, first prices snowing advances over Saturday's closing figures of from & to 1 per cent, the latter in Missouri Pacific. The intense activity continued for most of the hour, with New England leading, though all the active list shared in the animation. The list was strong, though the gains recorded were for small fractions only, and soon after the opening most of the list retired to the neighborhood of the opening prices, but Missouri Pacific rose 1½, Wheeling and Lake Erie preferred 1¾, San Francisco 1¼, Pacific Mall 1 per cent and others fractional amounts, while Chicago, Burlington and Quincy was specially weak and declined 1 per cent. Late in the hour, however, the market became quiet, but showed renewed strength, and at 11 o'clock it was specially weak and declined 1 per cent. Late the hour, however, the market became quiet, by showed renewed strength, and at 11 o'clock it was active and strong, generally at small fraction better than the opening Egures.

COLORADO SPRINGS, COL., April 30.—The conclusion drawn from the condition of things in the house and the position in which the bodies of old Mrs. Kearney and her grandson were found yesterday is that they were murdered for money, which it is known the former had in the house, but by whom it is still a mystery. Two bullet holes were found in the skull of the boy, while his grandmother's head was crushed with an axe in such a manner as to explode the theory of suicide. The boy was the grandson of J. C. Hand, a wealthy iron merchant of Philadelphia, and was to come into possession of an estate of $40,000 at his majority.

New York, April 30.—Charles Rickerd, a policeman of this city, was caught in the act of burgiarting the auction rooms of Reilly & McIlhenner, at 83 Nassau street, while on duty, early this morning. The firm had reported goods missing from their place at different times. Capt. McLaughun, of the first precinct, to whom the complaint was made, requested to be furnished with a duplicate key to the auction room, which was done. He then had his detectives enter the store after the close of business, and await developments. They watched throughout Saturday night and sunday without result. Their vigil was rewarded, however, about 3 o'cleck this morning, when they heard the front door open and saw, to their surprise, one of their own comrades enter the store. They followed him, cat-like, about the premises, upstairs and down, and watched him calmiy heip himself to various articles of silver-plated ware. Rickerd left the store, closely followed by Detectives named Oates and Nugent. They arrested the culprit while he was rying to hide a silver teapot in the basement area of an adjoining building. Rickerd confessed to having been pilfering from the premises for a week or more. He was a soldier in the regular Army until two years ago, having completed a term of five years at that time. He was latterly stationed at Governor's island and upon his discharge was recommended to the police commissioners by General Hancock. When arraigned this morning Rickered pleaded guilty and was held without bail to await the action of the grand jury.

The New York Times' Paris cable special on the pictures in this year's Salon says: "A fine portrait of van Loon, the great Holland merchant, is shown by Cabanel, and also a bewitching one, in the artist's finest manner, of the Chicago beauty, Miss Leiter. Another splendid portrait is that of Mme, van Loon in a light-blue velvet dress. That of Miss Leiter is the best, however, and is certainly the prettiest head in the whole Salon."

Attempted Suicide of Joseph Wells HE CUTS HIS THROAT WITH A RAZOR—THE WOUND NOT A DANGEROUS ONE, Joseph Wells, a bricklayer, living at the house of his parents, No. 914 6th street southwest about 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. He returne home for dinner about 3 o'clock, and was under the influence of liquor. When he entered the house he went directly to his bedroom, where he remained some influets. His parents did not disturb him, and thought he was asleep. After remaining in the house nearly an hour he took a razor and made a desperate attempt to end his life by drawing the blade across his throat, making an ugiy wound. With blood streaming from the wound thus made, Wells ran into the street and attracted the attention of many persons who were out for a walk. He was making his way toward the river, when he was met by sergeant Barry and Officer Block, who escorted him to the fourth precinct station, and had him removed to Providence Hospital, where an examination of the wound proved that it was not a dangerous one, He appeared very well pleased at this information, and said that he did not know what he was doing when he used the razor. Some years ago Wella was shot in the head, and this, with the liquor which he had drank, is supposed to have affected the influence of liquor. When he ent-
